PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

The Mystic Landscapes of the Emerald Island is a program designed to explore the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland from a physical, cultural and environmental geography perspective. This is a three-week program that starts and finishes in Dublin along with an opportunity to circumnavigate the entire island while exploring these themes. As this program is now in its seventh rotation there has been many relationships created with locals to create an amazing program for the students to explore and investigate the area. This program travels by bus with an experienced driver that the program uses regularly.

Students will have the opportunity to register for one or two courses for this program. These courses are both included in the general education requirements at WKU. Geography 103 is in the explorations category and Geography 452 is in the Local to Global category. Students may take both of the courses or six hours of the 452 course. Many students from a variety of majors are drawn to this program because of the flexibility of the courses within their graduation requirements. In the six years we have had just a handful of majors from the department but a majority of our student come from all the colleges.

PROGRAM LEARNING OBJECTIVES

Learning Objectives for Colonnade Program: This course fulfills the Colonnade Program requirements for the Local to Global subcategory of the Connections category. As part of that programs, students in GEOG 452 meet the following learning objectives: Students will demonstrate the ability to:

- 1) Analyze issues on local and global scales.
- 2) Examine the local and global interrelationships of one or more issues.
- 3) Evaluate the consequences of decision-making on local and global scales.

Learning objectives for GEOG 452: The course objectives for GEOG 452 are designed to integrate fully with the Colonnade Program. Upon successfully completing GEOG 452, you will be able to:

- Evaluate local systems, particularly the cultural and/or physical landscape, to understand their position and influence in the global context.
- Describe how geographic analysis and principles allow for a deeper understanding of the evolution of a place in an effort to better understand and predict future changes to the cultural and or physical landscapes of a location.
- Describe and analyze the relationship between the five themes of geography, (location, place, human environment interactions, movement and region) to evaluate how local practices can affect these themes on global and local scales.
- Compare the local physical landscape formation and change within its position in the global physical landscapes.
- Investigate how locations fit together, with surrounding location, in an established mosaic understanding how they contribute and connect with the others.
- Observe the local ideology and or physical landscape of a place to draw comparisons of these observations to the learner's sense of place.
- Describe the impact of globalization, particularly the movement of people, goods and ideas, on the cultural and /or physical landscape.
